AIG to Relocate Tokyo Headquarters to Azabudai Hills

TOKYO – October 14, 2025 – AIG Japan Holdings KK (AIG) today announced that it will relocate its Tokyo headquarters to Azabudai Hills Mori JP Tower (Azabudai Hills). AIG General Insurance Company, Ltd., and other AIG Japan group companies will be officially headquartered in the new location effective January 2026, with colleagues beginning to move into the new location next month.

Japan plays a significant role in AIG's global business and Tokyo represents a key location for the company. As we position AIG in Japan for the future, the relocation to Azabudai Hills will optimize, modernize and strengthen the resilience of the Tokyo headquarters and align with AIG's global real estate footprint.

The new office location offers colleagues a more inclusive and agile layout and an enhanced experience and infrastructure, creating a space where colleagues can work more effectively and collaboratively to increase operational efficiency and drive excellence.

"Tokyo is an important aspect of AIG's presence in Japan and this relocation represents AIG's commitment to the Japan market and our continued priority to be a partner to businesses, institutions and individuals in an increasingly complex world. As we look ahead to continued growth in Japan, I am proud to occupy a new space in Azabudai Hills which will offer an inclusive, modern workplace experience for colleagues to increasingly collaborate and to welcome our customers and distribution partners," said James Nash, President and CEO, AIG General Insurance, AIG Japan Holdings.

The Azabudai Hills complex is a premiere multi-purpose development located in the heart of Tokyo.
